THE PREVAILING SICKNESS.

The prevailing sickness in Barton has caused considerable speculation as to the cause. Some have thought it was the village water, but this cannot be true as many using private springs and other water supplies are and have been sick. The ice has been suggested but physicians say that in Westmore there is more sickness of the same nature in proportion to the population than in Barton, and in Irasburg there are many cases. Surely these cannot be laid to Barton ice. Others have suggested that there is something about the atmosphere or condition of the ground after two exceedingly dry years followed by a moderately wet one that has caused the trouble, but this solution is not really satisfactory in view of the fact that Orleans is not suffering from any such trouble. Many of the symptoms point toward typhoid fever in nearly all of the cases, yet typhoid germs have been found in but one or two samples sent to Burlington for test. The question of what it is and why it is remains unanswered.

Uncollared Dogs May Be Killed.

M. R. Maurice, state's attorney of Lamoille county, makes the following statement in a Morrisville paper. "I have been asked by the selectmen of several towns to call the attention of the people to the law regarding the killing of dogs not properly licensed and collared. P. S. sec. 5623, requires each dog to be licensed and to wear a collar distinctly marked with the name of the owner or keeper, and its registered number. The constable of each town is directed by his warrant to kill all dogs not so licensed and collared, and he is bound by law under a heavy penalty to execute this warrant. The Supreme court in a recent decision has held that a dog not so licensed and collared is not entitled to the protection of the law, and that the collar was as essential as the license. Any person may kill a dog not so licensed and collared without a warrant. This may not have been generally understood, and I am calling the attention of your readers to this so that any dog owners may have opportunity to comply with the law."

M. P. Maurice, State's Attorney."

Still Talk Runaway Pond.

In the course of a letter to the St. Johnsbury Caledonian Barton Works, of Santa Cruz, Cal., says:

"I noticed in the Caledonian not long ago that some of the Orleans county people made a note of the hundredth anniversary of the skidding of Runaway Pond in Glover. My father, James Works, saw and heard the avalanche of mud and water as it came down the valley. He said it was the greatest sight of his life. Great hardwood trees torn up by the roots were tumbling end over end in the torrent. But he said in this hilly country it was a pity so much good level land should be ruined by all the mud and rocks and trees. He came to Waterford in 1816, which he called the year without a summer; said he worked on the highway with an overcoat and mittens on; corn went up to three dollars a bushel. He said he guessed it was pretty nipping times for a good many people that winter."

"Many long years after that I wrote my name on the hotel register at Stanstead, P. Q. The landlord looked at me and said 'Are you James Works, and are you the little white haired boy that used to come out and pick up the Caledonian when I blew the horn?' My name, he said, 'is Russell, and I drove the stage from Danville to Littleton and threw out the papers along the route.'"

By the way kind readers, have you got that copy of the beautiful souvenir of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the event that the Monitor is mailing for 25 cents? It is still having a large sale.

Former Principal of Institute Heard From.

Mr. Editor: I am sure there are a number of your subscribers who were pupils at the Glover Institute when Professor Isaac A. Parker was at its head, and I have no doubt they will all be pleased to read the following excerpt from a letter received from him dated June 8, 1910:

"I am still living in the house in which I have lived forty-seven years, 488 Lombard street, Galesburg, Ill. I am eighty-four years old, and as would be expected, am losing my strength. I became quite deaf and gave up my work in the college in 1908, after fifty years' service. I now have no business. My son is the only one of my family left me. He is chief engineer of the St. Joseph and Rock Island railway, and has his office in St. Joseph, Missouri."

The signature, "Isaac A. Parker" is written with as firm a hand as any young man possesses. The body of the letter is typewritten, but I am sure by himself.

Very sincerely yours, Trufax. On board steamer "Ontario" from Boston to Maine.

"Quite a spell of weather," is the remark passed as a greeting, "especially Sunday." Few days have ever been experienced in this locality of such extreme heat. Thermometers in Barton registered from 90 to 93 degrees in the shade, just before the shower in the afternoon. Several other days recently have found the mercury above the 80 mark. It is said that 98 degrees in the shade was reached at Orleans.

Continuing our list of sick ones from last week we may add the names of A. A. Larabee, Mrs. F. E. Sawyer, Mrs. S. A. Hunt, Miss Kate Labounty, Harry Wilkie, Evelyn Dewing, Mrs. S. E. Winslow, Mrs. H. D. Phillips, Dean McLellan, Mrs. Barker, Edith Hall, Slayton Lang, E. A. Girard, Mrs. W. J. Maxwell, H. A. Harding, F. J. Jarvis. Some of the above are out again now. Most of the cases are of the same nature as spoken of elsewhere in this paper.

Preparations have been begun in the park in the square at the lower end of the village for the erection of a band stand. The structure will be of iron and should be very attractive if kept well painted and of course is almost everlasting. The owners of property facing on the square are divided as to the desirability of having a structure, believing it will obstruct the view. The Monitor believes the boys should have a stand and is very optimistic about how it will look after erected, hoping that it will not hide the view as much as is anticipated.

An exciting runaway took place on Friday when the team of Edward Taylor, loaded with feed in a hayrack, became unmanageable from fright of the cars and ran down main street. Though on the road and having a firm grip on the lines Mr. Taylor was unable to control the team. The corner into the square by Seaver's store was made at breakneck speed but the next corner on church street could not be made and the team took for the Batchelder horse shed. There are but two stalls here and one of these was occupied. The team took the empty stall at full speed but one corner of the rack hit the corner of the shed, checking the speed of the team enough so the horses were not crushed as they otherwise would have been. Mr. Taylor was not injured. Luckily Mr. Batchelder's automobile was not occupying the spot in front of the shed where the team took its course, else there would have been more to say.

Great Barn Christening.

It has been many years since a new barn has been given such a christening as that which took place at the East View stock farm in West Glover on Friday night, July 1, the occasion being a barn party on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Bean. This large structure is 124 feet long by 46 feet wide with a 26-foot covered driveway and equipped to house 40 head of cattle and six horses. The barn cellar is fitted for the storage of all sorts of farm wagons and farming implements. On the second floor are situated the cattle and horse stalls. Behind the cattle and horses is a driveway, wide enough for a team to be driven through for cleaning purposes. The hay bays will hold 150 tons, and a finely constructed silo has a capacity of 100 tons. Friends for miles around were very much in evidence, and as a host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Bean did every honor of the occasion. The Glover orchestra of six pieces, Roy S. Christie leader, furnished fine music on a temporary platform constructed at one side of the barn. The building was handsomely decorated with national colors and Japanese lanterns, and presented an excellent appearance. Over one hundred couples, including friends from Glover, West Glover, South Glover, Barton, Orleans, Albany and Sheffield were present, and also Mrs. Alexander Dwyer of Lexington, Mass., and Herbert T. Jenness of Boston, Mass. Nothing occurred to mar the occasion in any respect, and all who attended were loud in their praise of the well-known hospitality extended by Mr. and Mrs. Bean. Mr. Lang, father of Mrs. Bean and Mrs. Dwyer, was present and entered into the festivities with youthful vigor, which was enjoyed by all present. C. P. Bean, one of the trustees of the village, and father of the host was present and ably assisted in the general merrymaking. During the evening lemonade and bountiful lunches were served by the ladies present. It has been a long time since a more enjoyable party was collected and all who attended will remember the event for time to come. S. R.
